5. MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS:

Industry Structure and Developments: International rating agency Standard & Poor's has sharply revised India's growth forecast upwards to 7.9% for 2015-16, crediting the move to rising investment and fall in oil prices as it singled out the country in the region. Further, improvements in the fiscal and current account deficits and some forward movement on resolving structural bottlenecks have helped improve the business climate and make India attractive again to both domestic and foreign investors. India's economic prospects look promising but there are still many challenges. The industry and service sectors both expanded, inflation declined, and efforts to reduce bottlenecks in infrastructure investment buoyed sentiment and increased the country's attractiveness to foreign capital flows. Net portfolio investment inflow recovered strongly to more than $35 billion.

The strong growth outlook is contingent on further acceleration in investment activity. Recent measures include accelerating environment clearances for infrastructure projects, easing the process of land acquisition for infrastructure and industrial corridors, allowing auction of coal mines to the private sector, and easing the compliance burden of labor laws on small and medium-sized industries.

The new monetary policy framework, under which the primary objective is to maintain price stability while remaining mindful of growth, would help in restraining inflation and improve the coordination between monetary and fiscal policy. The impetus given to capital expenditure in the recent budget will improve the expenditure mix significantly and bodes well for growth prospects. The government's "Make in India" campaign is expected to further boost manufacturing industries and urbanization.

One of India's most pressing policy challenges is to promote cities as engines of economic growth and jobs. To fully reap the benefits of urbanization, the government must make further efforts to coordinate urban and industry planning to attract industries into cities, and provide the necessary supporting infrastructure.

Opportunities & Challenges : While economic sentiment is buoyant, availability and access to quality talent continues to be a serious impediment facing organizations. Your company is of the view that paucity of talent would continue to pose a problem over the next 5 years. India is betting big on manufacturing through the 'Make in India' initiative. However, the problem of attracting and retaining quality talent also remains a key challenge for the manufacturing sector. In this context, your company is addressing three key segments: 1) Corporate Training Segment which is our key business 2) Education segment where we have made some initial inroads to develop faculty and students so that they are made employable 3) CSR segment where we build capacities of corporate foundations and Not for Profits organizations who are working towards enhancing livelihoods for communities through skill development.

Trainer Quality & Development: As the India growth story gains momentum. The missing factor that could derail the skills initiative is the development of quality trainers who not only have to ensure quality of training but also build true market place competencies for life-long learning. In this emerging paradigm trainers should have a) Technical skills b) Soft Skills c) Pedagogy Skills d) Entrepreneurship development skills. In order to address this your company believes that trainers should be provided with a holistic blend of technical and soft skills training. Trainers form a critical part in the whole institutional delivery mechanism of skill development. Thus enhancing the knowledge and skills of trainers is imperative.

A need for succession planning: Rapidly growing industries, such as those driven by the rise of digital media, often rely on relatively young and inexperienced managers to take on senior positions. By and large, these individuals have not yet developed a leader's perspective. The growth of that talent pool has not kept pace with those of the brands. The ultimate result of this lack of qualified successors senior leaders are postponing retirement. Instead of developing and executing a clear succession plan, executives have been extending their tenure, lacking confidence that the next level of management is up to the task of leading.

Looking for Leaders : Companies have been so focused on growth that they have not invested in developing the next generation of executives. In a study by Harvard Business Publishing, an overwhelming 88 percent of top Indian companies cited "gaps in their leadership practice" as their top challenge in coming years. 15 to 18 percent of leadership positions in these companies will be unfilled-or will be filled by people underprepared for the jobs. The demand for preparing talent to be ready for leadership roles is increasing and presents an exciting opportunity for your company.

Limited variety of experience at the top: Without a strong leadership pipeline in place, star functional specialists are typically promoted to top roles. These individuals may have a background focused within one domain, and may not have had the opportunity to develop a broader perspective or set of skills. Some companies are now focusing towards targeted on-the-job experiences and in-depth training. But most companies have invested little in this type of executive development. Thus, when functional specialists are promoted into general management positions, few are well prepared and motivated to handle their new roles.

Skilling Mid Level Managers: Traditionally, Indian companies operated in a markedly top-down manner-the person with the corner office made the final decisions, and senior managers oversaw their specific silos. Now it is giving way to a more participative approach, more resonant with the younger generation and more effective for companies that are too big to micromanage. But this new operating model can be effective only if skilled managers are available to fill the ranks. Young talent needs development and supervision, the lack of managers capable of providing this guidance has become more acutely felt.

Workplace Readiness: India lacks the educational institutions it needs, from the earliest years to the post-college level. Thousands of Indian university graduates entering the workforce every year, are often not "industry ready" or equipped in the skills of global business. This has contributed to a dearth of topnotch candidates and a growing talent war for those few with desirable skill sets.

Insufficient training for new recruits: Many Indian companies struggle with new-hire "on boarding" programs. Often, the incoming class of MBA recruits is not sufficiently integrated into the broader workforce, and companies put too much hope too early on these new hires' shoulders.

The Next Generation: Many Indian executives recognize the above challenges, but are unsure what steps to take to overcome them. Your company has the experience in replicating and implementing specific solutions that have been successful at Global companies and Indian companies instead of generic activities. Your company supports organizations in making talent management and development a key component of an enterprise building activity.

CSR: Given the enormous shift towards CSR, the question for corporates is not whether to engage in CSR, but to find the best possible way forward. Many of the professionals who are practicing CSR lack the skills required to craft and implement CSR programs. Further, CSR has become an opportunity to enhance employee engagement that reinforces employee's belief in the company's vision and business values. Dale Carnegie's research with NHRDN shows that highly engaged employees are more productive and have a positive impact on market capitalization of companies.

Outlook, Risks & Control : Using new data sources and a revised base year, the government announced new GDP estimates in January, which suggest that the Indian economy is much stronger than was previously believed, and that growth may be closer to that of China. The Union Budget for 2015-16, which provided a balanced policy framework aimed at supporting all sections of the economy. The business outlook for your company is optimistic as the macro-economic environment is expected to improve thereby enhancing industry investment. In this scenario a stable growth in business is expected.

Cautionary Statement: Your Company endeavors to perform and attempt to deliver the best at all times. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES AND NOTES ON ACCOUNTS

1A General Information:

Walchand PeopleFirst Limited (the 'company') is engaged in the business to impart training in soft skills like leaderships, communication, presentation, etc. The Company had acquired the franchise rights to offer, sell, teach and impart the training methods, techniques and programs developed by Dale Carnegie Training & Associates, U.S.A. to individual and employees of the corporate.

1 Significant accounting policies

1.1 Basis of preparation of financial statements

The financial statements have been prepared to comply in all material respects with the Accounting Standards specified under Section 133 of the Act, read with Rule 7 of the Companies (Accounts) Rules, 2014 and the relevant provisions of the Companies Act, 2013. The financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention on an accrual basis. The Company has consistently applied the accounting policies which are consistent with those used in the previous year.

1.2 Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the results of operations during the reporting period. Although these estimates are based upon management's best knowledge of current events and actions, actual results could differ from these estimates.

1.3 Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are stated at cost, less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses if any. Cost comprises the purchase price and any attributable cost of bringing the asset to its working condition for its intended use.

1.4 Depreciation

Depreciation is computed using the Written Down Value Method ("WDV") as per the useful life of the asset as prescribed in part C of Schedule II of the Companies Act, 2013 leaving a residuary value of 5% of original cost of the asset.

1.5 Impairment

- (a) The carrying amounts of assets are reviewed at each balance sheet date if there is any indication of impairment based on internal/external factors. An impairment loss is recognized wherever the carrying amount of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is the greater of the asset's net selling price and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value at the weighted average cost of capital.
- (b) After impairment, depreciation is provided on the revised carrying amount of the asset over its remaining useful life. A previously recognized impairment loss is increased or reversed depending on changes in circumstances. However the carrying value after reversal is not increased beyond the carrying value that would have prevailed by charging usual depreciation if there was no impairment.

1.6 Intangible Assets

Amount paid as franchisee rights and software is treated as an intangible asset and is amortized over a period of 5 years from the date of incurring such expenditure on pro-rata basis.

1.7 Revenue Recognition

Training Income

- (a) In case of Open Programs, income is recognized at the commencement of the program.
- (b) In case of Corporate Programs, appropriate revenue is recognized when confirmed order is received and there is reasonable certainty of completion of the program.
- (c) In case of long-term course (i.e. courses more than 6 weeks duration), revenue is accrued over the period of the course.

Other Income

- (d) Dividend Revenue is recognized when the shareholders' right to receive payment is established by the balance sheet date.
- (e) Interest is recognized on a time proportion basis taking into account the amount outstanding and the rate applicable.

1.8 Foreign Currency Transactions

(a) Initial Recognition

Foreign currency transactions are recorded in the reporting currency, by applying to the foreign currency amount the exchange rate between the reporting currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction.

(b) Conversion

Foreign currency monetary items are reported using the closing exchange rate.

(c) Exchange Differences

Exchange differences arising on the settlement or restatement of monetary items at rates different from those at which they were initially recorded during the year, or reported in previous financial statements, are recognized as income or as expenses in the year in which they arise.

1.9 Investments

- (a) Investments that are readily realizable and intended to be held for not more than a year are classified as current investments. All other investments are classified as long-term investments.
- (b) Current investments are carried at lower of cost and fair value determined on an individual investment basis.
- (c) Non current (Long-term) investments are carried at cost. However, provision for diminution in value is made to recognize a decline other than temporary in the value of the investments.
- (d) Carrying amount of an individual investment is determined on the basis of the average carrying amount of the total holding of the investment.

1.10 Retirement and other Employee Benefits

- (a) Contributions to Provident Fund and Superannuation scheme are defined contribution plans. The company's contribution paid/ payable toward these defined contributions plans are recognised as expenses in the Statement of Profit and Loss during the period to which the employee renders the related service. There are no other obligations other than the contributions payable to respective funds.
- (b) Company's liability towards gratuity is considered as a Defined Benefit Plan. The present value of the obligations towards Gratuity is determined based on actuarial valuation using the projected unit credit method. The obligation is measured at the present value of estimated future cash flows using a discount rate that is determined by reference to market yields on government securities at the balance sheet date, having maturity periods approximating to the terms of the related obligations.
- (c) Actuarial gains and losses are recognised in full in the period in which they occur in the statement of profit and loss.

1.11 Borrowing Costs

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of an asset that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use or sale are capitalized as part of the cost of the respective asset. All other borrowing costs are expensed in the period they occur. Borrowing costs consist of interest and other costs that an entity incurs in connection with the borrowing of funds.

1.12 Segment Reporting Policies

The company has a single segment namely “ Training”. Therefore the company’s business does not fall under different business segments as defined by Accounting Standard -17.

1.13 Leases

Leases where the lessor effectively retains substantially all risk and reward of ownership of the leasehold assets are classified as operating lease. Operating lease payments are recognized as an expense in the profit and loss account on straight-line basis over the lease term.

1.14 Earnings Per Share

Basic earnings per share are calculated by dividing the net profit or loss for the period attributable to equity shareholders (after deducting preference dividends and attributable taxes) by the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period. Partly paid equity shares are treated as a fraction of an equity share to the extent that they were entitled to participate in dividends relative to a fully paid equity share during the reporting period. The weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period are adjusted for events of bonus issue; bonus element in a rights issue to existing shareholders; share split; and reverse share split (consolidation of shares). For the purpose of calculating diluted earning per share, the net profit or loss for the period attributable to equity shareholders & the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the period is adjusted for the effects of all dilutive potential equity shares.

1.15 Taxes

- (a) Tax expense comprises of current and deferred tax.
- (b) Current income tax is measured at the amount expected to be paid to the tax authorities in accordance with the Income-tax Act, 1961 enacted in India. Tax rates and tax laws used to compute amount are those that are enacted or substantially enacted at the balance sheet date.
- (c)
 1. Deferred income taxes reflect the impact of current year timing differences between taxable income and accounting income for the year and reversal of timing differences of earlier years. Deferred tax is measured based on the tax rates and the tax laws enacted or substantively enacted at the balance sheet date.
 2. Deferred Tax liabilities are recognised for all timing differences.
 3. Deferred tax assets are recognised for deductible timing differences only to the extent that there is reasonable certainty that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised. In situations where the company has unabsorbed depreciation or carry forward tax losses, all deferred tax assets are recognised only if there is virtual certainty supported by convincing evidence that they can be realised against future taxable profits.
 4. Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities are offset, if a legally enforceable right exists to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and the deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities relate to the taxes on income levied by same governing taxation laws.
- (d) At each balance sheet date the Company re-assesses unrecognised deferred tax assets. It recognises unrecognised deferred tax assets to the extent that it has become reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised.
- (e) The carrying amount of deferred tax assets are reviewed at each balance sheet date. The company writes-down the carrying amount of a deferred tax asset to the extent that it is no longer reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which deferred tax asset can be realised. Any such write-down is reversed to the extent that it becomes reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available.

- (f)
1. Minimum Alternate Tax (MAT) paid in a year is charged to statement of Profit and loss as current tax.
 2. MAT credit is recognised, as an asset only when and to the extent there is convincing evidence that the company will pay normal income tax during the specified period i.e. the period for which MAT credit is allowed to be carried forward.
 3. In the year in which company recognises the Minimum Alternative tax (MAT) credit as an asset in accordance with the recommendations contained in guidance Note issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India, the said asset is created by way of a credit to the statement of profit and loss and shown as MAT Credit Entitlement. The Company reviews the same at each balance sheet date and writes down the carrying amount of MAT Credit Entitlement to the extent there is no longer convincing evidence to the effect that Company will pay normal Income Tax during the specified period.

1.16 Provisions and Contingencies

- (a) A provision is recognised when an enterprise has a present obligation as a result of past event; it is probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation, in respect of which a reliable estimate can be made. Provisions are not discounted to its present value and are determined based on best estimate required to settle the obligation at the balance sheet date. These are reviewed at each balance sheet date and adjusted to reflect the current best estimates.
- (b) Contingent liability is a possible obligation that arises from past events whose existence will be confirmed by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events beyond the control of the company or a present obligation that is not recognised because it is not probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle obligation.
- (c) Contingent liabilities are disclosed, unless the possibility of an outflow of resources embodying the economic benefit is remote.
- (d) Contingent assets are not recognised.

1.17 Cash and Cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents for the purposes of cash flow statement comprise cash at bank and in hand and short term investment with an original maturity of 3 months or less.
